

Keyword Guide — for Natalie

A working guide to what phrases to use where. Not a rulebook — a set of anchors.

Your website's voice is editorial and human. Editorial always wins over SEO. But if we weave the right phrases into the right sections, Google can actually find you when a founder searches for what you do.

Google (and now ChatGPT search, Perplexity, etc.) reads pages like a person: it looks at the headline first, the opening paragraph second, the subheads third, and the body copy last. Say what you do clearly at the top, and everything else follows.

1. Your keyword bank

Think of these as your approved vocabulary. They aren't slogans. You don't need to force them. But when you're deciding between two ways to say the same thing, pick the one from the list.

Your branded terms (protect these)

These are the phrases that are yours. Say them exactly the same way every time.

- Natalie Micale Schultz (full name, this spelling)
- The White Space Growth Framework
- Growth Clarity Diagnostic
- Strategic Compass Sprint
- Focused Growth Retainer
- Strategic Repositioning Engagement
- Tory Burch 2023 Fellow (not "Tory Burch Foundation Fellow" — the year matters for search)

Category terms (what people search for you as)

Pick 1–2 of these per page and use them in the opening paragraph.

- Brand strategist
- Brand strategy consultant
- Growth strategy consultant
- Positioning consultant
- Brand strategy advisor
- Strategic advisor for founders
- Fractional brand strategist (only where it's genuinely accurate)
- Brand repositioning strategist (Repositioning page only)

Audience terms (who you serve)

- Founder-led businesses
- Founder-led teams
- Growth-stage companies
- Businesses at an inflection point
- Companies with real traction

(Avoid "small business," "SMB," or "startup" — wrong audience for search intent.)

Location signal

- Omaha, NE (once on Home, About, Contact, footer — not on every page)
- Midwest (natural, only where it fits)

Problem language (mid-funnel searchers)

- Unclear positioning
- Story clarity before execution
- Scattered momentum
- Clarity problem, not a capability problem
- Find the white space
- Positioning sprint
- Strategic clarity

Do NOT use these on your site

- "Free strategy call" (kills lead quality)
- "Full-service marketing"

- "Marketing agency" (you're not one)
 - "Fractional CMO" (except to explicitly say you're not this)
 - "Coach" or "coaching"
 - "Boutique agency" for yourself now (it's your past — you're a consultancy now)
 - "Small business," "SMB," "solopreneur"
 - Generic marketing words: "engagement," "activation," "amplification" when they don't mean anything
 - Emojis in body copy

2. The rules of the road

1. Say what you do in the first 20 words of any page. Not clever. Direct.
 2. Use one branded term + one category term per opening paragraph. Example: "I help founder-led businesses find their white space and clarify the story before more spend on execution." — "founder-led businesses" (audience) + "white space" (branded) + "clarify the story" (owned).
 3. Headlines should sound like Natalie. Subheads should sound like search. People read headlines for voice and subheads to skim. So headlines can be poetic ("Not a capability problem. A clarity problem."), but the subheads underneath should be plain ("Brand strategy for founder-led teams at an inflection point."). Give Google the plain version somewhere near the poetic one.
 4. The credentials matter for search. Tory Burch 2023 Fellow, former TV journalist, built and sold a boutique agency — these belong on Home, About, and once in the footer. They're not bragging; they're how Google (and prospects) verify who you are.
 5. Link between your pages using real words. When you say "the Sprint" in body copy, make it a link to the Sprint page. When you say "the framework," link to the Method section. Don't say "click here" or "learn more."
 6. Never write a paragraph for Google. If a sentence exists only to fit a keyword, delete it. Google is smart enough to notice, and readers definitely are.

3. Section-by-section copy guide

HOME (/)

The one thing this page must do for search: Say clearly that you are a brand strategist for founder-led businesses in Omaha, and that your framework is called the White Space Growth Framework. Everything else is voice.

SECTION	WHAT TO INCLUDE	EXAMPLE PHRASING
Hero headline	Voice-first. This is your one poetic moment.	"Not a capability problem. A clarity problem." (keep)
Hero subhead / lede	Plain, keyword-forward. This is what Google reads first.	"Brand strategy and growth clarity for founder-led businesses at an inflection point."
Trust line before logos	Category + credibility	"Seen by 150+ brands, from Tory Burch Foundation Fellows to national news."
Problem section (01)	Problem-aware phrases	"unclear positioning," "scattered momentum," "story tangled," "your best work is invisible"
Creed ("What I believe")	Voice. No keyword pressure.	Voice only.
Meet Natalie (02)	Credentials + category	"Former TV journalist. Built and sold a boutique agency. Tory Burch 2023 Fellow." + "a strategic partner to founder-led businesses"
Method (03)	Owned framework term	"The White Space Growth Framework" — say the full name once.
Ways In (04)	The three offer names — exact	"Strategic Compass Sprint · Focused Growth Retainer · Strategic Repositioning Engagement"
Diagnostic tease	Owned offer term	"Growth Clarity Diagnostic — a paid entry point."
Proof (05)	Client names (once approved)	Use real client names as they appear on their own sites.
Standard (06)	Voice. No pressure.	Voice only.
Closing CTA	High-intent phrase	"Let's find your white space." keeps your branded verb.
Location signal	Once, somewhere natural	"Working with founders from Omaha and beyond." — footer or under Meet.

Aim to say these on Home somewhere: brand strategy, founder-led businesses, white space, Omaha, Tory Burch 2023 Fellow.

ABOUT (/about)

The one thing this page must do for search: Rank you for your own name and confirm your credentials.

SECTION	WHAT TO INCLUDE	EXAMPLE PHRASING
Hero kicker	Category	"Brand strategist. Founder advisor. Former TV journalist."
Hero headline	Voice. Your one line.	(existing works)
Bio opening	Full name in first sentence	"I'm Natalie Micale Schultz — brand strategist and growth advisor to founder-led businesses."
Career section	Credentials verbatim	"Former TV journalist. Built and sold a boutique agency (acquired by Sentral Holdings, 2025). Tory Burch 2023 Fellow."
How I work	Category + audience	"I work with founder-led and growth-stage companies at inflection points."
Anywhere natural	Location	"Based in Omaha, working with founders across the country."

Aim to say these on About: Natalie Micale Schultz, brand strategist, founder-led, Tory Burch 2023 Fellow, Omaha, Sentral Holdings 2025.

SERVICES INDEX (/services)

The one thing this page must do for search: Name the four ways in — clearly and in exact language — and be the parent that links to each sub-page.

SECTION	WHAT TO INCLUDE
Hero	"Three ways to work together — plus a paid diagnostic to figure out what you actually need."
Each of the three cards	Use the exact offer name in the H3. Under each, one plain sentence of what it is.
Growth Clarity Diagnostic block	Say the name in the heading. Body: "A single working session and a written findings memo — a paid, lower-risk way to start."
"Not sure which fits?" line	Link the phrase to the Diagnostic section.

Aim to say: Strategic Compass Sprint, Focused Growth Retainer, Strategic Repositioning Engagement, Growth Clarity Diagnostic — each once, exactly as branded.

STRATEGIC COMPASS SPRINT (/services/strategic-compass-sprint)

The one thing this page must do for search: Rank for "positioning sprint," "brand strategy sprint," and its own branded name.

SECTION	WHAT TO INCLUDE	EXAMPLE PHRASING
H1	Voice + owned name	"Six weeks to an operating document your team can run." (keep)
Lede (first paragraph)	Both: category phrase + specifics	"A six-week positioning sprint for founder-led teams — three working sessions, one operating document."
What's included	Concrete: positioning, ICP, offers, messaging, plan	Plain bullets — no marketing-speak.
Fit block	Audience terms	"For founder-led businesses with traction and a tangled story."
Not a fit	Anti-match language	"Not a website project. Not marketing execution. Not a coaching program."
Investment	Starting price if approved	"Starts at $XX,XXX." — one number, no ranges dressed up as ranges.
CTA	Named action	"Start the conversation."

Aim to say: positioning sprint, brand strategy sprint, six weeks, founder-led, ICP, messaging, 60–90 day plan.

FOCUSED GROWTH RETAINER (/services/focused-growth-retainer)

The one thing this page must do for search: Rank for "strategic advisor for founders" and disambiguate from fractional CMO / coaching.

SECTION	WHAT TO INCLUDE	EXAMPLE PHRASING
H1	Voice	(existing works)
Lede	Category + what it isn't	"Monthly strategic advisory for founder-led teams — senior judgment on priorities, not a task dump and not a fractional CMO."
How it works	Plain rhythm — what the monthly cadence is	e.g. "One working session a month. Voice or writing between."
Not a fit	Explicit disambiguation	"Not day-to-day execution. Not a fractional CMO seat. Not marketing management." — this phrasing rescues the query "strategic advisor vs fractional CMO."
Investment	Monthly retainer number	"Starts at $X,XXX/month, three-month minimum."

Aim to say: strategic advisor, monthly retainer, founder-led, not a fractional CMO.

STRATEGIC REPOSITIONING ENGAGEMENT (/services/strategic-repositioning)

The one thing this page must do for search: Rank for "brand repositioning strategist" and read as premium.

SECTION	WHAT TO INCLUDE	EXAMPLE PHRASING
H1	Voice	"The business changed. The story did not." (keep)
Lede	Category + who it's for	"High-stakes brand repositioning for established founder-led teams: market shifts, leadership transitions, and multi-stakeholder alignment."
Process	Research-informed language	"Discovery. Market research. Positioning. Story architecture. Rollout plan."
Fit block	Established-company audience	"For companies that have outgrown the story that got them here — usually $10M+ in revenue."
Investment	Anchor as premium	"Investment starts at $XX,XXX. Timeline: 10–14 weeks."

Aim to say: brand repositioning strategist, strategic repositioning, market shifts, multi-stakeholder, research-informed.

RESULTS (/results)

The one thing this page must do for search: Build trust — but only with real proof.

Until you have at least one approved case study live, this page is intentionally hidden from Google. Once real work ships:

- Each case study headline should contain the client name and the result in plain language. Not: "How we transformed a mid-market brand." Instead: "From tangled services to a sellable value ladder — Bel Air, in 45 days."
 - Include one direct client quote per case with their name and title (real ones, approved).
 - Link each case study to the relevant service page (e.g. "Delivered through a Strategic Compass Sprint →").

FAQ (/faq)

This page will do more SEO work than any other. Every question here is a phrase someone might Google.

Rewrite each question the way a founder would type it. Not: "Investment tiers" — instead: "How much does a brand strategy sprint cost?"

Suggested questions to include (each is a real search): - How much does a brand strategy sprint cost? - What's the difference between a strategic advisor and a fractional CMO? - How long does a brand repositioning take? - Do you work with early-stage founders? - Do you work with companies outside Omaha? - Do you write copy or build websites? (answer: no — clarifies scope) - What is the White Space Growth Framework? - Do you use AI in your strategy work? - Can I start with just a diagnostic?

Answers should be direct, warm, and 2–4 sentences each. Every answer should include at least one anchor phrase from your keyword bank naturally.

START THE CONVERSATION (/start-the-conversation)

Not a page Google needs to optimize hard. But two rules:

1. First sentence names what this is: "Tell me about your business and the strategic problem. I read every inquiry personally."
 2. Keep the "I read every inquiry" line. It's a phrase people quote when they refer you — helps branded search intent.

4. The one-page cheat sheet (print this)

Every page: - First 20 words say what you do and who you serve. - Full name spelled once on Home + About. - Location signal (Omaha) once on Home + About + Contact + footer. - Framework named exactly once as The White Space Growth Framework.

Every headline: - If it's poetic, put a plain-language subhead directly under it.

Every link inside body copy: - Use the real name of the destination as the link text. Never "click here."

Every service page: - Name the offer in the H1. - Say the category phrase in the first paragraph (positioning sprint / strategic advisor / brand repositioning). - Say what it isn't somewhere on the page. - Publish a starting price if approved.

Never: - Force a keyword into a sentence that doesn't want it. - Write for Google at the expense of voice. - Use words you wouldn't say out loud to a founder.

If a sentence passes the "would I actually say this to a founder on a fit call?" test, ship it. If not, cut it — whether it's SEO or not.
